Romeo Hotel, Naples

Enjoy the clean landscape of glass, concrete and wood at Romeo, the first contemporary hotel to open in Naples, in the heart of the up-and-coming port-terminal area on the waterfront. Masterminded by Japanese architect Kenzo Tange, the 85-room hotel is a sparkling showcase for the city's best artists, including Francesco Clemente and Lello Esposito. The lobby, with its sushi bar and cigar lounge, was created by Philippe Starck, as was the rooftop swimming pool, with its Zen garden and signature flower-box benches. The 10th-floor restaurant exploits the epic view over the bay, and the Daniela Steiner spa, which looks out to Mount Vesuvius, features treatments utilising volcanic minerals, clay and salts.

Romeo Hotel (+39 08 1017 5008; www.romeohotel.it), from about £298 a room a night.
